

Interstate Container Corrugated Packaging

Can a brown box add to your bottom line?

Yes! It truly is possible for your packaging to boost your bottom line.

Many manufacturers and producers assume that all brown boxes are the same and that corrugated packaging belongs in the “cost” column of the spreadsheet.

To us, packaging is not only about protecting your products from point A to point B but also about protecting your reputation, promoting your brand, and preserving your bottom line.

Specialized Capabilities

When our customers approach us with specific product requirements, logistical challenges, and/or market demands, we welcome the opportunity to help them solve their problems.

Example: Mountaire Farms

Mountaire Farms wanted to respond to increasing pressures to deliver their poultry products in a more environmentally responsible manner. The result, after five years of collaborative R&D between Interstate Container and Mountaire, was Greencoat[®], a revolutionary wax-free corrugated packaging technology that literally changed the face of the poultry industry. Greencoat[®] earned Interstate Container the inaugural “Pioneer Award” from the Global Green Coalition for Resource Recovery (CoRR).
